

11 of the most luxurious new hotels in the US

WHERE TO STAY, UNITED STATES

WITH THE PENT-UP DEMAND OF TRAVELERS wanting more seclusion, space, and amenities than ever before post-pandemic, the luxury hospitality scene is back in full swing. Many travelers either canceled or postponed their trips to 2022 and beyond, and they're ready to treat themselves to a much-deserved luxury experience that's well worth the wait. In 2022, plenty of high-end hotel openings throughout the US, and we've curated a list of the most bucket-list-worthy spots to visit. From upscale nature-focused retreats to sophisticated city high-rises and multi-bedroom family suites, the hotels debuting next year are diverse and innovative, making it evident there are several ways to define luxury travel moving forward. If you're planning on traveling within the US next year, you'll want to keep these 11 hotel openings on your radar.

3. PGA National Resort and Spa — Palm Beach, Florida

South Florida's world-class active luxury destination, PGA National Resort and Spa has reimagined the family resort experience through a stunning $100 million transformation. With the official launch set for winter 2022, the revitalization features updated guest rooms and meeting spaces, new dining concepts, and wellness offerings and activities designed for families with an adventurous spirit.

The resort's 360 guest rooms and private cottages will be designed for curated comfort with hand-selected furniture that pays homage to the charm and elegance of 1960's Palm Beach chic, a theme that runs throughout the property, featuring wingback headboards, bed frames in dark brown and crème accentuated with custom vintage black-and-white palm-leaf wallpaper, plush area rugs and lacquered and caned case goods.