

The 31 Most Anticipated Luxury Hotel Openings of 2021

After the year (and counting!) we've had, our editors can't wait to return to our favorite destinations—be they domestic or international—with ease and excitement. While most of us have been pushing our travel plans aside for nearly a year and a half, luxury hospitality groups from across the globe have been hard at work, putting the finishing touches on their most anticipated new properties and making them feel safer than ever for wary jet-setters.

We've sorted through more than 100 exciting new openings to share our top picks of the most anticipated luxury hotel openings of 2021. Our selections cover 6 continents, 11 countries, and more than 20 alluring cities and towns to help you dream up the ultimate vacation in the new year. Our projected travel trends for 2021 and promising news of a vaccine help us feel confident that there's hope for an exciting getaway on the horizon, no matter what you're looking for.

Keswick Hall: Charlottesville, Virginia

Seated at the foot of the Blue Ridge Mountains in the charming college town, Keswick Hall is anticipated to be one of our new favorite sophisticated countryside destinations, as it has been completely reimaged for a more luxurious experience. A brand-new restaurant from the one and only Jean-Georges Vongerichten, a stunning golf course, tastings from local wineries, lush walking paths, and close proximity to Charlottesville's downtown, this immaculately restored, 108-year-old estate is the perfect place to enjoy the splendor of one of our favorite (and most stylish!) states in America.

Keswick Hall is expected to open in late summer 2021. Nightly rates will start at $995.